

FUND MANAGEMENT COMMENT

The top three long positions in September are gasoline, Brent oil and tin. The top three short positions are silver, platinum and gold. The biggest movements were in copper (+9%) and lead (-4%).

We lowered our energy sector weighting again, which now stands at +24%.

Compared to the previous month, the weighting in the industrial metals sector moved into positive territory and currently comes in at +4%.

Our positions in precious metals are still in negative territory at -24%.

Market timing signals (beta1 & beta2) are both generating positive indications for September. Curve and carry signals in September are predominantly pointing to net short positions in gold, platinum and silver and net longs in Brent oil, gasoline and heating oil.

Momentum strategies are flagging up short exposure to platinum and aluminium in particular.

Significant changes to the strategy allocation were implemented in our curve and seasonality strategies, with the main adjustments made to gold, silver, copper and nickel.

First Private Systematic Commodity A ended the reporting month with a loss of 1.58%.

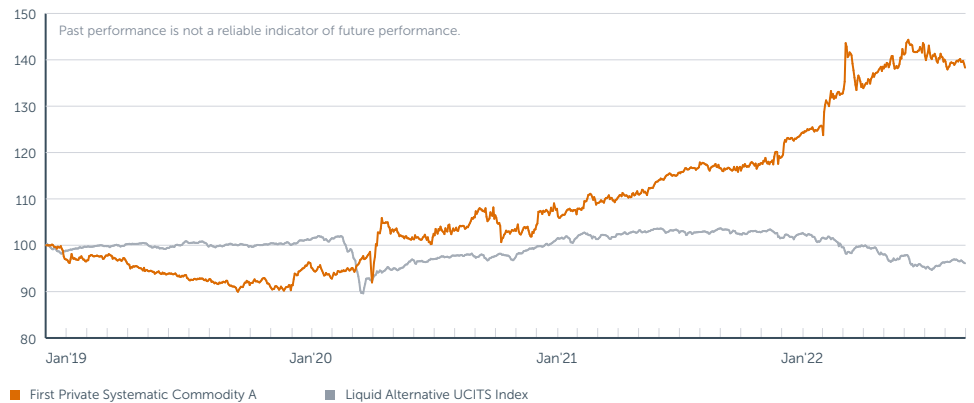

OBJECTIVE

The First Private Systematic Commodity fund targets attractive returns that are not correlated with those of traditional asset classes. By participating in commodity price movements, the fund aims to achieve a high Sharpe ratio with a very low correlation.

STRATEGY

The fund applies a rules-based long/short-strategy that has proven its worth over many years and which invests in 15 different commodities. Both long and short positions are taken and are allocated in equal proportions. Added value is generated via a series of independent signals (multi-strategy approach).

The index provider assumes no liability in any case regarding the stated index data. This information or document has neither been produced nor checked or confirmed by the index provider. For the calculation of the performance fee a preferably good match between the point of time of valuation of the benchmark index and the valuation of the fund's assets (NAV) will be consulted. This means that also another benchmark index closing price than the daily closing price can be consulted. In this respect, it is possible that there are valuation differences between the time of the declaration of the benchmark index's unit price and the end of the stock exchange trading (closing price). Possible intraday differences are likely to appear on the respective stock markets in times of high market volatility.
